New York—Max Neuman, 31 a bond dealer, was arrested Friday night on a certified copy of an indictment found in Los Angeles charging him with conspiracy in connection with the robbery of more than $70,000 in securities from a United States mail train in that city in 1921.
He is to be arraigned before a federal commissioner Saturday.

Owners Of Sets That Interfere With Neighbors Liable To Arrest

It is estimated from reliable figures that there are 1,500,000 radio receiving sets in operation in the United States today and judging from the number of sales of apparatus daily, it is probable that in two years this number will be doubled.

A moments reflection on the part of those who now have receivers will produce all sort of conjectures as to what this will mean to the continued satisfactory reception of broadcasts. Those who operate their receivers in parts of the city where aerials are most numerous, cannot avoid thinking about the chap next door or the tenant upstairs operating a receiver that radiates.

There are hundreds of persons who now tune in for their evening concert from their favorite station to find that after becoming all set their reception is muddled by a lot of calls and whistles. These who are experienced will wonder, but the initiated will know that the interference comes from a neighbor operating a re-radiating receiver.

WHAT RECEIVERS RADIATE?

"What is a radiating receiver and why does it interfere?" was a question recently put to L. C. F. Horle, chief engineer of the Federal Telephone and Telegraph Company, in reply Mr. Horle said. The worst offenders are directly coupled regenerative receivers which use the antenna electrical characteristics as a part of the tuning system and whose radiation is increased with the strength of the oscillations of the detector tube. In this case, the single circuit receiver is one of the worst offenders. In a regenerative receiver, these oscillations can be pushed to a very high amplitude because of the control of the various circuits which regenerative receivers commonly employ.

In many cases we find other controls on the tubes which make it so complex that the novice operator finds it difficult to leave the proper means of always knowing how to bring his tubes in and out of oscillation.

It is readily seen that radio frequency receivers cannot possibly oscillate with the same violence as regenerative receivers because they inherently have high losses in their transformer devices which are necessary to flatten out the curve of the reception wave lengths. It is entirely practical to prefix one or two stages of transformer coupled radio frequency amplification to a receiver that offsets, thus effectively reducing its radiation to a minimum. It can truthfully be said that most owners of such radiating sets are wholly unaware of their offense. In many instances where such owners are informed of their unintentional intrusion, a change was immediately made and a remedy affected.

It is entirely within the hands of the users of radio equipment, whether or not the growth of broadcasting and, subsequently, the broadening of the programs is to go ahead uncontrolled by legislation.

A complaint about a particularly vicious interfering receiver, whose owner refused to be considerate was answered recently by S. W. Edwards, Supervisor of Radio for the eighth district, headquarters at Detroit, in the following words:

"If a receiver oscillates and sends energy into the ether, the signal so transmitted is capable of causing interference with the reception of signals or radiograms coming from beyond the boundaries of the state in which the oscillating receiver causing the interference is located, and can then be classified as a transmitter and be subject to the regulations covering such stations."

Section 5 of the Radio Act could be evoked if the operator or owner of a receiving station continued to allow his receiver to oscillate. The interference produced by such a receiver could be classified as malicious and upon conviction thereof the owner or operator, or both, shall be punishable by a fine of not to exceed $500.00 or imprisonment of not to exceed one year or both. Section 1 provides a fine of $500.00 and confiscation of all apparatus unlawfully used if the transmitter is not licensed. Receiving apparatus which oscillates and sends a signal into the ether may be classified as a transmitter.

With reference to the licensing of receiving sets which oscillate and send out a carrier wave, I have to advise that Sections 1, 2 and 3 of the Radio Act of August 13, 1912, cover the situation."

Lots Of Action And Mystery In Fletcher Novel

BY JEAN JAMISON

Masterly action, a rapid plot, logically concluded, and a blood feud which reaches from Italy to London distinguish "The King versus Wargrave." In his latest novel, J. S. Fletcher has maintained his usual standard by producing a detective story whose characters are ordinary humans, and whose mystery is not solved by the master mind, but by common-sense investigation.

Marco Grati was found murdered in his London apartment, and that same night, Gemma, his pretty Italian granddaughter disappeared without leaving a trace. Adrian Grady, a disinterested spectator, attracted by Gemma, follows out the case but to no result. Six years elapse, and Gemma reappears as Lady Wargrave to find that a warrant for her arrest awaits her. At the same time she discovers that her child is being slowly poisoned. Elements unforeseen by the coroner's jury six years before have entered the case, and are solved by the combined efforts of all.

London, that city of mystery tales is here the setting, the basis, and in fact almost the motivating force. Through its dense fog Gemma first meets the afterwards devoted Adrian Grady, through that same fog, Gemma disappears and an indictment of murder is placed upon her. It is the London of underhand work, of empty houses where unseemly events take place, or unheeding indifference through which young girls may disappear, never to be found again.

Mr. Fletcher has written, as always, a story primarily of plot, swift moving, entertaining, and logical. The major characters do not distinctly stand out, but he has drawn in a few graphic phrases, pictures of an Italian restaurant keeper, a middle aged lipping pawnbroker, and the members of stolid British jury. Gemma is perhaps more English than Italian: one of the jury men talks in dollars rather than shillings, but these slight deviations from fact do not detract from Mr. Fletcher's able handling of an unusual and distinctive story.

"The King versus Wargrave" is a pleasure to read, as were "The Middle Temple Murder," "The Tallcrand Maxim," and his others, for it has the style and manner of one who can write the English language. It has a complicated plot, but never once does Mr. Fletcher impose on one's credulity as it is unfolded and developed.

MENASHA MAYOR WANTS TO CHANGE GOVERNMENT FORM

The city of Menasha may adopt either the city manager or commission form of government in the near future if the suggestion of Mayor M. M. Schoetz is carried out. In a recent address to the city council of Menasha, the mayor asked the aldermen to call a public meeting for the discussion of the question of change in government. He drew attention to the fact that two rivers lately has adopted the managerial form of government while Port Washington has adopted the commission form.

Status Of Taxpayer On Dec. 31 Determines His Exemptions

Changes wrought by births, deaths and marriages during the year affect materially federal income tax returns for the year 1923. It was announced this week by A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue for the district of Wisconsin. Millions of babies were added to family circles. For each, the parents, in addition to their personal exemption of $2,500, entitled to a $400 credit for a dependent.

Boys and girls who become self-supporting and whose parents allow them the use of their earnings without restriction, form a new class of taxpayers. Each must file an income tax return and pay a tax on his income. If such income was more than $1,000. The earnings of minor children who have not become "emancipated" must be included in the parents' return.

Widows and widowers who lost their spouses during the year and did not remarry before Dec. 31, nor become the head of a family, are allowed only the $1,000 exemption for a single person. Widows and widowers are not required to show on their individual returns the income of husband or wife up to the time of death. The income of a decedent is considered separately, and the return must be filed by the executor or administrator of the estate.

If on Dec. 31, a taxpayer was married and living with his spouse, the exemption is $2,500, if the couple's net income was $5,000 or less; the ex-

COUNCIL TAKES IMPORTANT ACTION

The common council Wednesday evening took three steps of great consequence to the future of Appleton. It awarded contracts for construction of two junior high schools, purchased a 50-acre park in the Fourth ward and authorized a committee to study the procedure for creating more wards. Each of these steps is fraught with greatest significance.

Awarding of contracts for building new schools means that the congestion which has been a serious impediment to orderly and efficient education of Appleton's youth soon will be a thing of the past. Educators and others who have more than a passing interest in education have been advocating greater school facilities for nearly a decade. It is regrettable perhaps that economy has forced changes from the building plans designed to assure greatest efficiency, but a start has been made and the very desirable, but not absolutely essential features which have been eliminated from the plans can be added in the future.

Appleton, long far behind other cities in the amount of its park acreage, is working its way to leadership in this respect. Purchase of a park in the Fourth ward places a recreational playground in every section of the city except in the Fifth ward and it is hoped that property for park purposes will be acquired there at an early date. Appleton now has 155 acres of parks but this comparatively large acreage should not deter the council from purchasing more if the property is desirably located and the price is within reason. Purchase of the park in the Fourth ward was a wise investment for the future as well as an immediate benefit to residents of that section.

People generally will welcome the council's interest in creating more wards, and thereby securing larger representation on the county board of supervisors. Every community in the county will admit that Appleton is woefully lacking in representation in proportion to its population and taxable wealth. It is sincerely hoped that the special committee will find a way of overcoming the difficulties which surround this important move.

POOR DEMOCRATIC JUDGMENT

Up to this week the Republicans have approached the campaign without an affirmative issue, other than that of let-well-enough-alone. Mr. Coolidge was an asset, but not an issue. The oil scandal had placed the party in an entirely defensive position. There was little to commend it to the confidence and preference of the country. It had inherited a seemingly strong president, but its record was altogether against it, both in foreign policy and in legislative and administrative acts.

The consternation of the politicians who take to themselves the responsibility of party success over the dangerous outlook is undisguised. They have been running pell-mell to the White house to tell the president how to save the day. They have advised him, quite correctly, to clean out his cabinet. They have done this not in a spirit of reform, but because they were panic stricken. They would, so far as their influence in congress goes, continue the same old reactionary policies that have brought the party to grief and disgrace.

We doubt if the administration has made much progress toward reinstating itself with the people. So long as its destinies, aside from the influence that the president and a few of his official family can command, are in the hands of the Old Guard the people are skeptical. They have lost faith in the kind of leadership that Lodge, Smoot, Moses & Co., typifies. No particular credit attaches to the cabinet house-cleaning under way, nor to the punishment of evildoers in the oil mess. This is merely rectifying mistakes and wrongs. The fact stands out sharply that the Republicans since their return to power in 1920 have bungled all the way through and have betrayed the public trust reposed in them. They have nothing as a party to recommend themselves to the voter. They have no platform on which to ask an extension of their lease, no great issue to arouse popular support. They are morally bankrupt.

It is for the Democrats to give them an issue, and this they seem determined to do on the question of tax revision. The secretary of the treasury worked out a scientific proposal for reducing taxes. If we eliminate prejudices and judge his proposal in an intelligent and business-like manner, it stands out as a sound, practical measure for lowering taxes equitably and helpfully. Its probable results are quite clearly indicated, in the relief it affords from burdensome taxation, in the production of revenue and in the attraction of capital back into investment fields. It means an abandonment of war taxation, and that is what the country should have. Had the Democrats supported the Mellon plan they would have received as much credit for it as the Republicans. The Republicans would have had nothing to claim except that they originated it, and that would have amounted to little. But the Democrats had to have something different. They had to oppose it because they are essentially a party of opposition, and have been kept in this difficult position the most of the time since the Civil war by the skillful maneuvering of the Republicans. So they devised a tax plan of their own, disregarding the experience of the treasury department and the facts, figures, and reasoning that supported the Mellon plan. They devised a scheme that on paper reduced still further the taxes on smaller incomes, and kept the surtaxes at practically the war basis. It was a bid for prejudiced and class approval. It offers no prospect of the constructive benefits of the Mellon bill. In invites a deficit of some several hundred million dollars. Moreover, it creates an issue of first importance, and gives the Republicans the affirmative side of the issue.

The Democrats may relish this division but if they do we think it is another of their many poor exhibitions of political judgment. The economic burdens of the war should be lifted for the very good reason that the country is financially and commercially able to lift them. Unwise and unjust tax revision will not only not lift them but will encourage the rich to continue to avoid and evade them. We do not believe the Democrats will appear to good advantage in committing themselves to legislation that does not put an end to smothering war taxation. Yet this is the side of the issue they have chosen in their attempt to force through the Garner bill.

THE STORE AND THE MANAGER.
A clever woman who is associated with the Move-More-Merchandise campaign, Mrs. Genevieve P. Reid, advances the theory, if you want to call it a theory, that you form an impression of the owner or manager of a store by one glance. As you look at the show-window, the sign, the stocks, the arrangements of the goods, and the character of its newspaper advertising, you say to yourself "This is a well-managed establishment," or that it is not.

It is a fact that everybody does judge a store and merchandise by appearances. The average customer does not take the trouble to think back to the manager, but does spontaneously acquire a positive impression as to the character and classiness of the store.

A house decorated and furnished and kept in harmony with the artistic taste and means of the lady who directs it. We judge the lady and the family by the looks of the rooms. So it is with a store.

TREATMENT OF GALLSTONE DISEASE
The time to treat gallstone disease is indeterminate. The gall sac is in the stage when it is uncertain whether the symptoms are really due to gall sac trouble. A glass of hot water slipped slowly on rising and at bed time, and plenty of cold water between meals, will prevent more trouble than gallons of mineral water taken later on as a folorum remedy.

Though gallstones come high, we don't have to have them. Why are the great majority of cases in women, 80 per cent of them in women who have had children? Why is typhoid fever such a feature of the history of gallstone disease? Women are inclined to drink insufficient water, from habit and for the sake of avoiding the inconvenience resulting therefrom. Women get less exercise, especially insufficient walking in the open air, when pregnant. Sedentary habit and inadequate liquid intake predispose to gallstones. Typhoid germs are always eliminated through the gallstones in typhoid fever; not strange that a few should remain there if the bile apparatus is torpid. But there is no reason why expectant mothers should not take a daily walk throughout the waiting period; in fact, this is the best assurance of a normal labor. Typhoid fever is now as unnecessary for the individual, as in smallpox. And as for neglected teeth and Riggs' disease and infected tonsils—portals of entry for other germs which produce gallstones—these are all preventable or curable if not allowed to go too far.

Both as prevention and as treatment of a suspected case of gall sac trouble, the following measures are valuable:

1. A diet containing a minimum of meat and a maximum of fresh fruits. The less meat a race consumes the less prevalent are appendicitis, gastric ulcer and gall stones. A bulky, largely vegetarian diet overcomes intestinal stasis (constipation) in nature's way.
2. At least three pints of water each day, besides the liquid in or with regular food. One can scarcely drink too much.
3. If constipation is not prevented by the two measures just mentioned a few doses of paraffin oil (liquid petrolatum, U. S. P.) should be taken each day as an intestinal lubricant, instead of physics.
4. Either walking, room gymnastics, golf, tennis, bicycling or some other form of active exercise should be enjoyed every day, rain or shine. If not enjoyed, then taken. Unfortunately we have not yet perfected a form of exercise suitable for hypodermic administration.

There is but one cure for established gallstones. The cure is at least safer than the disease. In the hands of a good surgeon it is as safe as the operation for appendicitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Baby as a Target
Is a baby liable to take scarlet fever by just taking it out for an airing? Children are apt to stop and look at the baby. Can it get any communicable disease in that way? Isn't a baby that gets the proper amount of fresh air better able to resist a disease than one that is kept too much indoors.

Answer—The baby that gets a daily outing is much more resistant to infectious disease than the baby that gets just cooing. Yes, there is a danger of direct infection with scarlet fever if children along the way stop the baby to talk with him—if perchance one of the children has recently had scarlet fever in a mild form which escaped the attention of the health authorities or was concealed by calling it something else. The baby is a target for every one who hands him the usual line of baby talk, for that brings him within the spray range, and some score of respiratory infections, of which scarlet fever is but one, are communicated in that way. Of course you can't keep the baby under a glass case or drive stakes and run a rope around him whenever you see somebody approaching. But you can keep a watch and be in a great hurry when a suspicious character approaches. A suspicious character is any one who seems to have anything purporting to be a "cold." When a mother takes the baby out for his daily four miles of oxygen she should carry a large or hospital size mallet with her and gently tap on the calvarium any one who so far forgets all the rules of hygiene as to attempt to kiss the baby.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE

All this worry about the Leap Year, I really do believe, is enough to make each maid and matron giggle up her sleeve. For when a girl decides she'll wed, nine cases out of ten who decrees the question shall be popped? Well, surely not the man. She lassos him, and lures him on, and well it is a fact, he thinks he did the worrying—you see, she uses tact. The pursuer is the female; the pursued one is the man. It's that way now and has been thus since this old world began. And rest assured, whenever a maid has fixed her hook with bait, he might as well give in and bite—she'll get him sure as fate. And so you hardened bachelors and bashful swains take heart, cheer, You're just as safe in Leap Year as in any other year.

If you could see as far ahead as you can behind ---you'd own a Schmidt Suit this Spring!

It took Fulton just so long to invent the Steam Boat and Newton just so long to discover Gravity—and by the law of average, it is going to take you just so long (unless you own a Schmidt suit now) to realize that clothes at $35 are the best clothing buys in America.

Meanwhile—we know this; that if you could see February 1925 now as clearly as you can see February 1923—we would not have to say another word.

TRINITY QUINTET WHIPS MULFORDS FOR CITY TITLE

Church Team Whips Clothiers 43-14, In Pileless Game

Kaukauna. Trinity Lutheran basketball team was conceded the city net championship when it trounced the Mulford aggregation 43 to 14 Friday evening in the high school auditorium. The Lutherans took a comfortable lead in the very start of the fracas and were masters of the situation equally. Crippled by the loss of two players who appeared on the opposing team, the Mulford quint played rather sagely. The pep and teamwork which usually put the team on even footing with much larger teams was entirely lacking this time. In the semi-windup the Fox club old timers tamed the Fox club juniors 18 to 8. The old timers some of whom formed the strong Fox club quint a few years ago, played with apparently much speed and endurance as ever and handled the situation easily. In a preliminary game the high school juniors took the Senior Holy Name society of Kimberly into camp 15 to 6. The juniors under Stanley Beguhn made up a classy bunch of players and give promise of furnishing excellent material for the future high school team. Lineups in the main attraction: Lutherans—William Hase, center; Henry Oim and Carl Ploetz, forwards; Elmer Ott and Martin Hase, guards; Mulford—Alfred Ristau, center; Warren Brenzel, Milton Metz and Edward Ludwig, forwards; Carl Chapin, Herbert Homan, guards. In the Fox club game Oim, Schrader, Hase, Webster and Rennieke represented the old timers while Parent, Lester Brenzel, Warren Brenzel, Russell Brenzel and Spindler formed the Young Fox club members' team.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womanhood. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

Get These Facts and Get Them Straight! Of Great Importance To This City and All Its Citizens

Is the immediate and future development of the city. In going over most of the best known magazines, one runs across carefully and expensively prepared, and attractive advertisements of many cities, and improvements among them we today find the Chamber of Commerce of Tonawanda, New York, St. Louis, Missouri, the State of California, and other important communities, spending large sums of money to attract industry and people to their cities.

Chambers of Commerce definitely place the value of each permanent family in a city at $15,000.00.

Now — therefore, — if permanent successful industry is brought to your city that will employ one hundred people, this will enhance the value of your city by $1,500,000.

Isn't that worth giving very serious thought?

A city grows as established industry expands, or as new, successful industry is established. Bringing a new successful industry to your city that attracts money from various part of the country to your city, means just this — the greater circulation of money — which benefits merchants, the professional men, the life insurance men, the house building associations, the banks, the bond houses, the laboring class — EVERYBODY.

Now that is a dead sure certainty—you will grant—I am sure.

Now—for landsake—just because some one lost money in an oil speculation or in an almost-gold mine, or in a limburger cheese factory, or any other venture—

That surely is no reason why a city is not going to continue to make progress and endeavor to attract new industry to it, nor is that a reason why new industry, properly financed and properly managed will not be successful.

In an early issue, questions asked that come up in establishing this industry will be answered.

42 MILLION DEAD LETTERS BECAUSE OF POOR ADDRESSES

Postal Department Calls Attention To Economic Loss From Carelessness

Every day during the month of January more than 134,000 letters were sent to the dead letter office at Washington because they were undeliverable. This means that 42,000,000 letters a year cannot be delivered on account of illegible, in correct or incomplete address. This waste is something that the public should take cognizance of in the observance of Better Mailing week, according to the postmaster general's department.

What makes the situation worse is the fact that nearly one-fourth of the undeliverable letters do not even contain the sender's address. A total of 12,000,000 of the undeliverable letters that are sent to the dead letter office can not even be returned to the sender. When the letter contains the sender's address, it is returned at a cost of 3 cents.

One factor that contributes largely to the avalanche of undeliverable mail is the failure of many persons to give instructions as to forwarding of mail. When a family moves, the change of address should promptly be given the postoffice of the letter carrier.

Insecure wrapping of parcel post results in the sending of $50,000 parcels to the dead letter office every year.

Mailing lists should be kept up to date by asking for a checkup at the postoffice. More than $500,000 in postage is wasted every year through the use of mailing lists that contain obsolete or incorrect addresses.

For prompt dispatch and delivery, large mailers should face all letters one way, separate according to states and large cities and tie up mail in bundles. Advance notices of heavy mails should be given the postmaster. Special delivery should be used for prompt delivery, registered mail to insure certain and safe dispatch and receipt, money orders for transmission and parcels should be insured against loss.

URGE SANDING OF ICE ON SIDEWALKS

Although the city street department has sanded practically all the icy sidewalks in the city, the safety of the walks is thereby not insured for the rest of the winter. As the sun heats the grains of sand they burn their way into the ice and the winds blow some of the sand away. As an aid to the street department and as a means of self-protection, it is suggested by the department that residents strew sand, ashes or grit on their sidewalks to make walking safe. The department is not required to sand the walks but has been giving this service free of charge. Sand is the best material to use on walks.

Seymour Mayor Educated In School Of Hard Knocks

This is the last of a series of articles about the mayors and presidents of Outagamie-co cities and villages.

BY W. F. WINSEY

L. H. Waite, mayor of Seymour, was educated in the school of hard knocks by his own admission. The schooling and the knocks were administered at Darien, Milwaukee, Green Bay and Seymour, he said.

Mr. Waite's parents died when the present mayor was only 13 years of age and he has been obliged to struggle for his existence, without aid, since.

He found his first employment in the distributing establishment of the McCormick Harvester company at Milwaukee.

In this school, Mr. Waite learned the marketing side of the farm implement business by personal contact and experience and finished his course of training after 18 years of diligent service in Milwaukee and Green Bay.

$100,000 BUSINESS

Fitted for business by doing business, Mr. Waite formed a partnership with William Beck under the firm name, The Farmers Implement company and opened his doors for business 18 years ago in Seymour.

The Farmers Implement company now is doing a business that totals $100,000 a year. Waite and Beck also own a half interest in the Service Auto company, Seymour.

Mr. Waite also has had considerable experience in public and semi-public service. For instance, he has served the city of Seymour three years as mayor and four years as alderman.

He was vice chairman of the county council of defense during the World war, is treasurer of the fair association, was president of the Chamber of Commerce, was president of the Wisconsin Retail association two years and director for four years. These were the school of public service that Mr. Waite attended and in which he learned his lessons and served his constituents well.

Mr. Waite's assistants in the common council of Seymour are aldermen Ira E. W. Huth, R. Talbot, P. L. Forward, and J. Lubinski. B. G. Dean is city clerk, John Bunklema is treasurer and William Burgoyne is the assessor.

Under Mr. Waite's administration, main-street paved, concrete reservoirs were constructed for the use of the fire department, a Watrous four cylinder fire engine and a chemical engine were purchased, storm sewers on Main street with branches on side streets were laid and side streets were graded and graveled.

At a recent meeting of the common council $1,200 for public entertainment was donated to the Seymour band.

Mr. Waite was born in Darien, Wis. in 1872 and attended the public schools of that place. He was married in Green Bay 20 years ago, to Beala L. Platz and they have one daughter, Shirley.

Here I am, little Marquise, talking to you entirely of my disappointments in some phases of John's character when I started to tell you about meeting Sydney Carton again. Meeting Sydney Carton, however, was a part of this surprising knowledge that I really did not know John, and that there was a man who knew him better than himself, who possibly did not always approve of him but who accepted him just as he was as a friend whom he would help and care for even when he knew he was being used by John to further his own end.

After Jack hung up the telephone he turned to me and said, "At last, Leslie, old Syd has come to see us and he has invited us to dine with him and go to a show tonight."

"Why didn't you invited him out here, Jack?" I asked.

"Simply because I knew that if you two old introspective philosophers got together and talked around among ideas that would be hard for me to follow—that I would not want to follow if I could. We can have a good dinner and see a good show in a mighty good company when he doesn't take either you or himself too seriously. He is much like you, Leslie, in many ways."

There must have been two entirely different egos mixed up in my cosmos. They fight all the time. I know in my heart, dearest, that old Syd and you are both much better than I and yet I feel there must have been something about me that isn't wholly unworthy, because if there was you wouldn't bother with me now, would you?"

And there, little Marquise, Jack came over and put his arms around me and pulled me close, close to him and whispered, "Dearest, I am sorry that I was such a contemptible bound as to send you to your father for that money, but honestly you must know that I was like a rat in a hole. Oh I know that you have been particularly decent to me in not twisting me of the fact that you told me to leave Harry Ellington alone, and down deep in my heart at the time I knew you were right, however much I might say to myself that you were narrow minded."

"Syd told me the same things, dear, and I may as well confess to you that I don't expect him to be as magnanimous as you. He is going to give me hell for going against his advice and he is going to throw in my face the fact that whenever I did take his advice I came out all right."

"Why, if I had taken Syd's advice before we were married, it would have saved me a lot of trouble at the time and ever since."

Jack caught his breath when he said this, little Marquise, and quickly changed the subject as though he were afraid that I would ask him some question that he didn't want to answer.

Girard, Kas.—The Henry Ford of the book publishing business is E. Haldeman Julius of this city. He owns a publishing plant that turns out 600,000 miniature volumes a month. He sells each book for five cents.

In a few years, Haldeman Julius has assembled one of the largest mailing lists in the country, and is adding to this list at the rate of 4000 names daily. In 1923 he is said to have sold 50,000,000 of his little books, classics.

CHINESE SLAVE GIRLS ARE BANNED BY POLICE

San Francisco—In San Francisco's Chinatown the tailors used to thrive by making dainty clothes for Chinese slave girls. But now, the police report, this trade has diminished to the point that the Chinese tailors are appealing to the Y. W. C. A. to take them in and put them in touch with American families wanting clothes.

The reason for this is said to be that most of the slave girls have been sent away by their owners, largely to small towns. The change in policy is attributed to the activities of Christian missionaries and the police in curbing some of the practices of the tong.

WERNER HEARS SUIT TO STOP OSHKOSH FROM TAKING GIFT

Seek Injunction To Prevent Oshkosh From Accepting Sawyer Home

The protracted injunction suit to prevent the city of Oshkosh from accepting the Sawyer foundation will be heard in circuit court at Oshkosh at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by Judge Edgar V. Werner of Shawano. William H. Kreiss of Appleton, will leave for Oshkosh to act there as court reporter. Judge Werner has been appointed to preside in this case in place of Judge Fred Beglinger.

The Sawyer foundation is a partial residence donated to the city on April 27, 1922, by E. P. Sawyer, wealthy Oshkosh resident. It is located on Algoma-bld., and because of its distance from the heart of the city its acceptance by the city was protested by several Oshkosh residents.

WHITE ELEPHANT

For an extended period all manner of suggestions were offered as to the best use of the gift could be put. Those opposed to accepting the gift charged that it was a "white elephant" which would merely cost the city a large sum every year to maintain it. It is asserted the building is unsuited for municipal purposes.

Finally an injunctive suit was started by Joseph M. Smick against the city and its officers, and the city was temporarily restrained from making any further use of the home until the case is settled. The suit was started last year and all these months the home has been unoccupied. A large garage on the property has been used as a fire station, however.

If the prosector wins in court, the city will be forced to return the Sawyer foundation to its donor, unless the supreme court decides differently.

Bids for buildings on water front—Pierce park, referred committee on Streets and Bridges.

Bids for buildings on east side Junior high school site, were referred to Board of Public Works, with power to act.

Council resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole. Alderman Thompson called to the chair.

Committee of the Whole arose at 10:00 P. M. and reported as follows:

Resolved, That the report of the Board of Public Works, be adopted.

Pursuant to your instructions we respectfully submit herewith a tabulation of bids received February 19, 1924, for the construction of west side Junior high school, with recommendations of this committee and the architect of the award of contracts in each case:

General construction contract—The lowest bidder of this contract is Hoepner-Bartlett company of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. This company has given satisfactory references showing its qualifications for the work.

We recommend that this contract be awarded to them for $205.94. This being their alternate proposal of $206,974.00, with the amount of supplementary proposals A ($500) and C ($250), deducted therefrom. We also recommend that supplementary proposals B, D and E, be rejected.

Heating and Ventilating Contract—The lowest bidder on this contract is Downey Heating & Supply Company, of Milwaukee, whose combined bid with that of the East Side building with supplementary proposals A & B is the basis for contract for both of these buildings. We have thought it best to recommend separate contracts on each building for better convenience in accounting.

We therefore recommend, that this contract be awarded to Downey Heating & Supply Co., for $41,500.00, being together with the recommended contract price of heating and ventilation for the East Side building, their combined alternate proposals $89,613.00 with supplementary proposals A & B, 909 and B $1,200 deducted therefrom.

Contract for Plumbing and Sewerage—The lowest bidder on this contract is Wenzel Bros., of Appleton, on their alternate proposal of $15,714.00 with supplementary proposals C ($342) D ($124) and F ($91) deducted therefrom. We therefore recommend that a contract be awarded them for $15,742.00.

Contract for Electrical Work—The lowest bid on this contract is that of Langstadt Electric Co. of Appleton for $7,286.00, this being their alternate proposal. We recommend that all of the supplementary proposals thereto be rejected.

That all bids for steel lockers be rejected.

Summary of recommended bids: General construction—Hoepner-Bartlett Co. $205,924.00 Heating and ventilating—Downey Heating & Supply Co. 41,500.00

Plumbing and sewerage—Wenzel Bros. 15,742.00 Electrical work—Langstadt Electric Co. 7,286.00 $270,452.00

Pursuant to your instruction we respectfully submit herewith a tabulation of bids received February 19, 1924, for the construction of east side Junior high school, with recommendations of this committee and the architect of the award of contracts in each case:

Inasmuch as the sum of the lowest bids received on the principal proposals exceed the appropriation available for the construction of the buildings we are recommending that contract be awarded on the basis of the alternate proposals.

General Construction Contract—The lowest bid received on this contract was from J. C. Nelson & Son of Minneapolis. They have referred to E. H. Enger, architectural engineer, of the board of education of Minneapolis. We have inquired of Mr. Enger, and his reply is as follows: "J. C. Nelson & Son have built Junior high school for us, contract price $418,000, also two grade schools. Additions Junior high school first class. We consider them very competent." We recommend that this contract be awarded to them for the sum of $205,800.00, being their alternate proposal figure of $207,600.00 deducting supplementary proposals A ($600) and C ($200). We do not recommend the acceptance of supplementary proposals B, D and E.

Contract for Heating and Ventilating—The bids on this contract were very close together and the low price varies according to the supplementary proposals considered. We recommend that supplementary proposals A and B be accepted and that supplementary proposals C and D be rejected. On this basis the lowest bid, on this basis is that of the Downey Heating & Supply Co., for $42,510.00. This figure is an arbitrary apportionment of their combined alternate proposal of $93,613.00.

Contract for Plumbing and Sewerage—The lowest bidder on this contract is Wenzel Bros., of Appleton, on their alternate proposal of $15,714.00 with supplementary proposals C ($342) D ($124) and F ($91) deducted therefrom. We therefore recommend that a contract be awarded them for $15,742.00.

Contract for Electrical Work—The lowest bid on this contract is that of Langstadt Electric Co. of Appleton for $7,286.00, this being their alternate proposal. We recommend that all of the supplementary proposals thereto be rejected.

That all bids for steel lockers be rejected.

Summary of recommended bids: General construction—Hoepner-Bartlett Co. $205,924.00 Heating and ventilating—Downey Heating & Supply Co. 41,500.00

Plumbing and sewerage—Wenzel Bros. 15,742.00 Electrical work—Langstadt Electric Co. 7,286.00 $272,410.00

Plumbing and sewerage—Wenzel Bros. 15,742.00 Electrical work—Langstadt Electric Co. 7,286.00 $270,452.00

Pursuant to your instruction we respectfully submit herewith a tabulation of bids received February 19, 1924, for the construction of east side Junior high school, with recommendations of this committee and the architect of the award of contracts in each case:
